DETAILED ACTION

Title

1. The following title is suggested: "Wire Processing Apparatus".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, x and x are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Forster (US 3,643,054).

With regard to claim 1, Forster teaches a microwave heating apparatus, comprising:

- a microwave generator (Fig. I, 19) for generating microwave;
- a waveguide (Fig. I, 15) for propagating microwave output from the microwave generator in a transmitting space thereof, the waveguide connected to the microwave generator; and

- a wire insertion pipe (Fig. I, 13 & Fig. IIa, 26) for inserting a coated wire (Fig. I, 12 or 14) into the interior thereof, the wire insertion pipe disposed in the transmitting space of the waveguide.

With regard to claim 4, Forster teaches the wire insertion pipe is made of a dielectric material (Fig. IIa, 26).

With regard to claim 5, Forster teaches that the coated wire (Col. 7, lines 28-32), which is composed of a coating insulator and an electric conductor, is not cross-linked and the coating insulator loosely covers an outer periphery of the electric conductor.

With regard to claim 7, Forster teaches that the interior of the wire insertion pipe is in atmospheric atmosphere, since the inner diameter of the cavity (Fig. IIa, C; col.7, lines 60-62) can be equal or greater than that of the outer conductor and therefore facilitate air flow through the wire insertion pipe to generate the same internal atmospheric pressure as the one of the environment.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Forster in view of Halpern et al (US 6,165,554).

Forster teaches a microwave apparatus for heating or curing wire coatings, which reads on applicants' claimed invention.

Halpern et al teach a wire heating by microwave apparatus (Fig. 5, 32) with hydrogen element (Fig. 5, 31), in order to facilitate and speed up the heating of the wire (Col. 8, lines 57-65).

It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the two teachings by applying the hydrogen gas in the wire area during the microwave heating of wire, as taught by Halpern et al, to the wire insertion pipe to be heated by microwave as taught by Forster in order to facilitate and speed up the wire heating.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 2 and 3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicants' disclosure.
